RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

Mrs. D. D. Parsons presented the chapter work room with a clock.

There were five new pupils at the surgical dressing class Monday.

Twenty-seven reported for work Monday afternoon, which is a good Monday showing.

The instructors wore their new official headresses Monday. They are very attractive.

Mrs. B. P. McCaslin was in charge of the surgical dressing class Monday, and Mrs. Chas. Frear had charge Tuesday.

Every woman in Monett who has any spare time should join the surgical dressing class. The appalling bloodshed in Europe will make heavy demands on the Red Cross and all we can do will be small in comparison to the great need.

Good work was accomplished at the work room Monday. The workers made 120 4x8 compresses, 300 4x4 sponges and 50 2x2 wipes. They set 500 pieces as their goal and only missed it by a little. A few more workers would have accomplished the full amount.

Every transport carrying American soldiers abroad is to have on board representatives of the Home Service of the Red Cross to look after the comfort of the departing men. As the soldiers have little time to communicate with their families and friends before leaving, these Home Service men will send communications from the man in the service to his family.

"A SOUTHERN CINDERELLA" PLEASES AUDIENCE

"A Southern Cinderella," presented by the Philathea class of the Baptist church Monday night at the Elks' hall, was a big success and was greatly enjoyed by the packed hall. The seats were all taken and many were standing.

Rice's orchestra furnished excellent music for the occasion.

The story of the play was good and each character played her part to perfection.

Madam Charteris, played by Mrs. Arthur Anderson, in the leading role, an old southern aristocrat, banishes her only child from the house because of an unsuited marriage. After several years of hard work and poverty, the daughter dies of a broken heart and leaves her child, Enid Bellamy, played by Miss Ada Riggs.

Enid is earning her livelihood at a loom in a large factory and is found there one day by a friend to her mother, Miss Rosie Winterberry. This part is taken by Miss Flossie Charles.

Madam Charteris has become an invalid and is cared for by a trained nurse, an unprincipled English woman, played by Miss Buna Ruggles. Mrs. John Farrow plays the sister's part. Madam makes another will and leaves her entire property to the Hawke sisters.

Miss Winterberry goes to Madam and persuades her to let her little grandchild come to her home and she finally does.

Mammy Judy Johnson, the colored servant, decides to get married and is deserted at the altar by the prospective groom. Mrs. Von Todisman played the part of the colored servant and made an unquestioned hit with the audience.

However, Madam makes another will and it is supposed to be destroyed by the Hawke sisters, but is finally found by Mammy Judy, who has had it hidden away for two years, thinking it was her unused marriage license. The will is restored and little Enid comes into her own at last.

Mrs. Percy Johnson, as Miss Johnnie Bell Randolph, was very winning with her persuasive manner and charming personality.

Mrs. Alva Jones and Mrs. W. R. Isbell gave vocal solos between acts.

The success of the play was largely due to the work of Mrs. John Farrow, as general manager, Mrs. Harry Fleming, who had charge of the advertising, Mrs. Solon Wright, who looked after the specialties and ushers, and Miss Flossie Charles, who drilled the actors.

"Food will win the war!" Whose food—German or American? The world awaits your answer.

All of the dollars in the world cannot buy victory. Victory is not purchasable—we must work for it and, if need be, die for it. Dollars can work for victory only in so far as they are converted into labor and materials.

For every man in the service the American Library Association computes that there should be at least one book in service. This means that a million more books are needed at once. Such books donated at Monett will be received by Superintendent M. J. Hale at the high school, who will forward them to headquarters.

Easter After All

Many have said that "Spirit" will win this war!

Munitions on a larger scale than ever known in history—battles employing more men than ever in the past—have impressed many as a means to the end of the war.

Thinkers say that the nation or nations whose spirit breaks first will lose the war, and there is much to that.

After all—Easter is Easter, and, although the business of the civilian is to maintain a spirit of confidence and to show it in his every action—in his attire—in his expression.

We have prepared for Easter as usual; true, some of the folds of the past are eliminated, but spruce, smart, manly style meets your gaze in every direction.

Our spring stocks invite your attention. Let Eastern Morn find you clothed freshly and in tune with the season.

High Art Clothes

offer the same substantial service, the same fair price, the same distinctive style they have always offered.

War-time economy and the maintenance of War-time good spirit dictate your purchase of these clothes.
